ANOTHER FOOTBALL TIE.

In a fast and exciting game of association football between the teams representing the Punahou and Maile athletic clubs each team was able to secure but one goal, the game ending in a tie, 1 to 1.

Both teams were out to win and played as hard and fast as they possibly could, each endeavoring to run the other off its feet. Punahou had the kick-off and from the time that Catton's toe struck the pigskin there was "something doing." First the ball was dangerously near the Punahou goal and then the Maile's. At last Anderson of the Mailes used his hands and Catton put the ball between the posts and into the net for the first score. From that point to the end of the first half there was no damage done.

In the second half the Mailes secured a free kick on a foul and by a very pretty place Anderson kicked the ball over goal-keeper Catton's head and evened up matters. Things were serious from this time on and the way those lads heeled, toed and butted that ball was good to look at. "Well played" was heard from many of the spectators who were enjoying the fierce contest. Play as they would, neither team could score, and when the whistle blew there were many weary athletes.

Punahou wanted to continue to play and decide the championship then and there, but their tired opponents could not see it that way.

If these two teams ever meet again it will be a battle royal. It is very possible that they will play off the tie on Saturday next.

The two teams faced each other as follows:

Mailes.	Punahou.

Cost of Golt.

The sum of nearly $50,000,000 is expended yearly on the game of golf, and of this sum about a third is spent by England and about a fifth by Scotland. There are no fewer than 879 golf clubs in England alone. The United States has 769; Scotland, 632; Ireland, 124, and Wales 43. There are 63 dotted over the continent, and no British colony is without one and in many cases several links. In round numbers there are 3,000 golf links in the world.

Estimates show that not less than $15,000 has been sunk in each of these clubs and the preparation of their courses, so that there has been a total permanent investment of about $45,000,000. Few of these clubs are run on less than $5,000 a year, and many of them cost ten times that sum.

The revenue is usually not entirely derived from subscriptions. Profits on catering and refreshments, green fees paid by visitors who use the links and various other items swell the clubs' revenue and make them equal to the strain put upon them.

Taking the average, these 3,000 golf clubs of the world cost about $20,000 each a year to run. The average membership is about 200, and the average subscription being $30, the total amount paid in subscriptions by the 3,000 golf clubs is nearly $20,000,000. But besides these golfers there are many thousands unattached, so that the entire golfing population of the world is about 750,000, not including the professionals, caddies and others who are intimately concerned.

A short calculation will show that with the club dues, extra green fees, purchases of clubs and balls and the many other expenses of the player, prominent among which are the railroad fares from residence to links, it is inevitable that the golfers must spend at the very least $50 a year. Many spend that sum, and there is one well known amateur who gives his golfing expenses at $3,800 yearly. But at the modest average of $50 yearly the three-quarters of a million golfers would spend among them $3,750,000 a year.

Then each of them possesses an outfit the average cost of which is $20. Many players use but seven sticks, and few use more, but most players have at least twelve. Thus the golfing public has sunk about $15,000,000 in the purchase of clubs. One amateur confessed that his twelve clubs were priceless, because he could not replace them to his satisfaction, but that they cost him in actual money $885.

The little ball has been the basis of enormous business enterprises in both England and America. Till lately the ordinary gutta-percha ball, which is comparatively cheap, was used, and it formed an insignificant part of a player's expenditure. But now the new ball has a core of gutta-percha strands wound at a tension, and its cost is much greater. Besides, it is easily damaged and made unfit for further play, so that comparatively few are used for more than three or four games. They vary in price from 25 cents to 75 cents, the popular ball being that at the middle price. The average amateur spends about 75 cents a week on balls, though many are known to spend $5. But, averaging on the minimum, the golfers of the world fritter away the sum of $28,125,000 on balls.

Sportlets.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 23.—William T. Reid, '01, of Belmont, Cal., has been offered and will, it is positively stated, accept the position of head coach of the Harvard football team. The contract with Mr. Reid provides for one, two or three years' service, at his option. The salary appropriated by the association is $3500 a year, but Mr. Reid's compensation will be somewhat greater. The additional amount is made up by a subscription among the alumni.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 18.—A crowd that completely filled the grand stand attended the races this afternoon. The feature was a mile handicap, in which Tod Sloan, the famous jockey, had the mount on Lurialight—the first he has had on an American race track in over four years, or since he was refused a license by the English Jockey Club. The applause that he received when he came out on Jim Davis's mare was general and genuine. The best he could do, however, was to bring her in third.

The Ring.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 18.—James J. Jeffries declared today that he would only enter the ring to defend the world's championship once more and that the match must come within the next twelve months. The champion assigns as his reason for this his growing distaste for severe training and the hard and constant work necessary to keep in condition. He says he has accumulated and invested enough money to keep him comfortable for the rest of his days. Billy Delaney, the veteran trainer, who has unearthed two world's champions, says he will also retire from active participation in all matters pertaining to the ring when "Jeff" steps down and out.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Feb. 18.—The gathering of a large crowd in a saloon today to see Bob Fitzsimmons play with his lion, attracted the attention of Humane Officer Bradbury and, unaware of Fitzsimmons's identity, he ordered him to desist from mistreating the lion. Fitzsimmons resented the interference and the officer left and filed a charge against the pugilist. Fitzsimmons was taken to police headquarters, but was later discharged.

Terry McGovern will not engage in another fight for some time as he is doing well with his show.

Martin Canole wants another battle with Willie Lewis, and let the New Yorker name his own terms.

Boxing contests will shortly be resumed at Savannah, Ga., when Tommy Feltz will meet some good boy.

Tacoma, Wash., is to have boxing contests, and bouts between good men will be arranged at an early date.

Ah Wing, the Chinese boxer, recently scored a knockout over Manuel Torres at San Francisco, in two rounds.

Harry Forbes is in good form at present, and may come East and don the mitts with some of the little fellows.

Abe Attell has received an offer to meet Owen Moran, the English bantam, before the National Sporting Club, London.

Frankie Neil wants to meet Jem Bowker again, and he is willing to let the Englishman name the conditions of the contest.

Philadelphia boxing promoters are anxious for Jimmy Britt to don the mitts in the Quaker City, and have offered him good inducements.

Philadelphia is the Mecca of the boxers, and among the recent arrivals there are Buddy Ryan, Abe Attell, Aurelio Herrera, Rufe Turner and John Wille.

Danny Dougherty, sparring partner of Terry McGovern, is going to forsake the ring for the stage. He will appear in vaudeville with Charles McDermott in a sketch combining singing, dancing and sparring.

Batting a Lost Art.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—"Batting is a lost art," says Captain Anson in his wordy war with Pitcher Chesbro over the "spit ball." "That is why all these fellows fall down on any ball that has a twist or two on it—something different from what they are used to. You don't see the long, sweeping stick work any more. It is all the chop and slap, and not an honest, good hard blow struck. That is why I say batting is a lost art. If some of these younger ones would study up they would get out of the modern rut that slaps at balls, instead of putting the wood into them for healthy drives.

"I don't care how the ball breaks. By the rules of the game it has got to come over that pan, and if it comes over and above the knees and below the shoulder there is no need for the slapper in the game. I think it's a case of bad eyes and worse guessing with these batters nowadays. They go after a ball feet from the pan and then call it marvelous pitching and new-fangled 'spit balls' and agree with the pitcher on it. They get away with it and nothing is said. The batters today do not compare with Dan Brothers, Thompson, Roger Connor, Gore, Dallyrnyple, Tiernan and I could name dozens or more, where nowadays you have one."

President Bert has completed his staff of umpires for next season, and the northern clubs can offer no objection to his selections from a geographical standpoint. Of his three men two,

"Slats" Davis and Gus Klopf, hall from their section, Davis is working this winter at Portland, and Klopf is located at Seattle. The latter is an experienced ball player, who was strongly recommended by Seattle people. He has never handled the indicator, but he is said to have the making of a successful umpire. Time will tell this. The third member of Bert's staff will be "Bull" Perrine, who took "Jack" McCarthy's place when he voluntarily retired from the diamond last fall. Perrine's work at Recreation Park was acceptable to the fans, and President Bert did right retaining him for this season.
